JOIE DE VIVRE PROUDLY RE-LAUNCHES A CAL-BERKELEY FAVORITE IN TIME FOR GRADUATION AND 2008 SEASON

San Francisco, June 3, 2008 – Henry's, a traditional 'campus bar' for Cal-Berkeley students, faculty and alums, re-opened today after an extensive remodel. With a new, handsome décor, renowned chef and 'gastropub' twist on the traditional favorites it's known for, Henry's is reborn.

After receiving a million-dollar renovation, the dramatic refresh of the restaurant will now include an additional dining area which will seat roughly 40 guests for a more 'reserved' dining experience, surround sound speakers and flat-screen televisions throughout the bar. The gastropub concept, known as 'a casual and relaxed place where one can find high-quality food,' is expected to surprise its faithful customers as the restaurant delivers on the classic bar favorites. Appealing to game-goers and those who need a little 'comfort' food, Henry's will offer coconut battered calamari, "angry" mac & cheese, spiced lemongrass and garlic fries, and a buttermilk fried chicken sandwich.

At the forefront of this long-awaited launch is Chef Edward 'Eddie' Blyden – an admired Bay area chef whose philosophy is to "keep it simple." Blyden, most recently creating cuisine for area gastropubs such as SOMA's 21st Amendment, The Alembic and The Magnolia Pub, is considered a global expert in fresh, gastropub-style cooking. He was born in Nigeria and after learning West African recipes for juices, wines and exotic/tropical fruit confectionaries, has built on these and Caribbean influences in some of the world's best restaurants from New York and Munich to Switzerland and the British West Indies.

With its prime location in the UC-Berkeley area at Durant and Telegraph, Henry's is a destination for diehard Cal Bears fans. Meeting the needs of both college students and loyal alumni, Henry's will continue its tradition of pre-game and post-game festivities, including the very popular outdoor beer gardens. For those who are unable to attend sporting events, but still want to enjoy a lively environment, Henry's will have a number of flat-screen televisions strategically placed throughout the bar. Along side the great Saturday crowd, Henry's will also have daily special promotions.

Henry's make-over takes place at a fantastic time when Joie de Vivre comes in tune with California's "green" side. Both The Durant Hotel and Henry's are partnered with Sustainable Berkeley as the property undergoes renovations to become an environmentally-responsible business. Upon completion, the beloved Berkeley pub will not only give the feel of a great sports bar and an excellent place to dine, but it will contribute to keeping the environment healthy and clean.
